

What is Claimed Is:

1. A beverage container with a packet device for containing powdered tea or other nutritional substances, the packet device being adapted to be attached to the beverage container at the neck thereof which consumers can use as an additive to their purchased beverage in order to maximize freshness, taste, and nutritional value of the enclosed powdered tea or nutrition supplement.

2. The beverage container of Claim 1 wherein the packet device is prepared to contain a minimum of 1 gram to a maximum of 8 grams of powdered tea or other nutritional supplement.

3. The beverage container of Claim 1 wherein the packet device is made in the shape of a leaf to imitate the natural characteristics of a leaf.

4. The beverage container of Claim 1 wherein the packet device is made out of aluminum to guarantee freshness of the enclosed powdered tea or nutrition supplement.

5. . A packet device for use with a beverage container for containing powdered tea or other nutritional substances, the packet device being adapted to be attached to the beverage container at the neck thereof which consumers can use as an additive to their purchased beverage in order to maximize freshness, taste, and nutritional value of the enclosed powdered tea or nutrition supplement.